I want to thank to everyone who has donated and taken the time to log bugs on the support site. Testing is a huge part of software development and I do admit that I could not put in as much time as I wanted to. This project is only a year old and has already seen two different iterations. I have idea's to expand the functionality of not only aretimes but the music store it's self but it seems there are not enough hours in the day. I feel that maian music is stable enough for me to start working on the community builder intergration and an advanced version of the music store that will allow for more control over the look and feel of the music store. I see another great year ahead for this project and for more collaboration with David from MaianScriptWorld.co.uk. In the short term I am going to create a search plug-in that will add music store results into the Joomla core search and a new module so you can place the navigation, cart and search bar anywhere on your site. So snatch up the latest version and have fun.

P.S I've created a new search plugin to include albums in search results.
